

My Mornings with a Giant: A Short Story

One Saturday morning, I woke up and felt it was an important day.
I sat up in my bed...

...and then suddenly I yelled, "There's a giant in the corner of my room!" He was huge!

I took a good look at the giant.
He put his hands on his face, too.
"Is he scared of me?!" I asked myself.

I waved at him. He waved back.

I said my name and he said his.

I asked him if he liked fudge, but he shrugged.

That was the most important morning of my life. Ever since then, my giant and I eat fudge every Saturday morning together and report on the week.

And that's my strange short story!
